

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

A band of showers will become slow-moving across some eastern parts of Northern Ireland on Tuesday, bringing some heavy and perhaps thundery rain which may persist in places for a number of hours. Rainfall accumulations of 20-30 mm possible giving the risk of localised flooding. Though this band will tend to disperse during the afternoon, there will be further rain across Northern Ireland on Tuesday night and into Wednesday, and there is the possibility that this warning may be extended when confidence in the expected rainfall amounts increases.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 05:00 on Tue, 11th Nov 2014 until 15:00 on Tue, 11th Nov 2014

A band of heavy showers will affect parts of County Antrim, County Down and Armagh from the early hours of Tuesday, lasting into the afternoon. Some heavy downpours are possible and the public should be aware of the risk of localised flooding.
